ICC Information:	To assist communities in disaster recovery efforts, the International Code Council has provided building safety professionals an opportunity to volunteer to help affected jurisdictions with building damage assessment, building inspections and other code-related functions in your community. These individuals have volunteered via the ICC Web site. ICC will provide a list of these volunteers to impacted jurisdictions or their agencies or departments. Volunteers do not represent ICC, and ICC does not represent any jurisdiction or entity that is requesting assistance. ICC does not investigate or assess the qualification, skills, capabilities or background of volunteers, and has no control over the volunteer's information once it has been provided to state and local governments. In addition, all matters relating to a volunteer's service—including the nature of the help needed, the time frame, expenses, housing, meals, insurance, salary reimbursement, and liability for injuries or damage to or by the volunteer—must be arranged between the volunteer and the jurisdiction requesting help. For information, please call 888-ICC-SAFE (888-422-7233), ext. 5238.
